Q17

Support

Do you support removing the requirement for a medical degree for oral medicine specialist registration in New Zealand, subject to the relevant medical training and clinical experiences being embedded into the specialist training programme?Click to learn more about the proposed changes.

Q18

Please tell us why:

New Zealand is the only country to my knowledge that still requires a medical and dental qualification to pursue oral medicine. The UK and Australia for example no longer require the medical component and the contents of medicine is integrated into the 3 year DClinDent programmes. The extra requirement of needing medicine hinders dentists from choosing oral medicine as a specialty, because of the additional time needed for one, but also the costs involved. Oral Medicine is a speciality that I would consider doing, however due to these reasons I don't think I would want to pursue it in New Zealand.
